UNIVERSITY of SUDBURY

Congratulations to Crystal Osawamick for receiving University of Sudburys highest award....

THE SWORD OF LOYOLA

The prestigious Sword of Loyola is the University of Sudbury's highest award. It was established in 1966 by the Board of Regents to recognize the graduating student who proved to be the most outstanding example of the University's ideal in scholarship, leadership qualities, and concern for others.

The Sword is linked directly to the University's relationship to the Society of Jesus. In 1521, the courageous Knight Ignatius Loyola placed his sword on the altar as a symbol of his dedication to the greater glory of God. His military service to the Spanish King was transformed into a ministry of service under the standard of Christ. It is this event that is considered to have led to the founding of the Jesuit order. The Sword of Loyola has come to symbolize the generous availability and involvement that marked the life of Saint Ignatius.

Wahnapitae is proud of the hard work & dedication that Crystal exuberates in all of her endeavours. She is an inspiration in our community, Bravo Crystal!

Government announces regulatory review after unanimous passage of Vanthof's off-road vehicles bill

February 25, 2015

QUEEN'S PARK – One week after Ontario's Legislative Assembly unanimously passed John Vanthof's Bill 46 to allow side-by-sides and two-up off-road vehicles on provincial highways, the government today announced a review of the regulations concerning off-road vehicles.

"This is one more step in the long road to get the Liberals to recognize the needs of people in rural and northern Ontario," said Vanthof. "The government is finally realizing that off-road vehicles have changed, and the rules for off-road vehicles need to change with them."

Currently, only handlebar-driven All-Terrain Vehicles with one seat can legally be driven on the shoulders of provincial highways, putting Ontario out of step with provinces like Quebec that have long allowed multi-passenger off-road vehicles on highways. This restriction means popular ATV categories like side-by-sides and two-ups face barriers when using recreational trails that cross provincial roads. Similar barriers are faced by workers in side-by-side Utility Task Vehicles who need to use the highway shoulder in order to access their worksites.

Vanthof's bill would mean multi-passenger off-road vehicles would be regulated in the same way as single-rider ATVs.

"The rules for off-road vehicles need to reflect the reality in northern and rural Ontario, where people now use side-by-sides and two-ups as part of their daily work routine and for leisure," Vanthof said. "Someone driving their side-by-side from their home to their worksite should not risk being charged just because their machine has room for two passengers."

"We are closer than ever to victory, but we need to keep the pressure up. I urge all riders of side-by-sides and two-ups to take part in this review, and make sure you're heard by the government," said Vanthof.

To participate in the Ministry of Transportation's Public Review process, the general public is welcome to provide feedback and commentary to the Ministry by April 13, 2015.

WFN is Wilderness Ready.....

11 Brave souls gave up their weekend to learn how to rescue people in remote settings. With a lot of coffee they managed to make it through the intensive four day Wilderness Advanced First Aid course.

The participants included our field technicians, resident canoe guide, volunteer fire department, college placement student, and some community members.

They went through a number of simulations to prepare them for real life situations. They were trained in scene management and shown how to effectively respond to a number of medical emergencies such as; hypothermia, wound care, respiratory failure, and spinal injuries. The make up effects for the fake wounds looked pretty cool.

The entire group passed their test and are now certified in Wilderness Advanced First Aid.

High fives to all our participants!
